

Wolfram Reiners

Prof. Dr. Wolfram Reiners was distinguished by the European Union with the 2007 European ICT Prize - the highest award in information and communication technology world-wide. The European ICT Prize is the most important recognition of product innovation with high marketability and customer benefit. It also represents the finest of European innovation in communication technology.

Beyond innovation and marketability Reiners was also awarded the 2007 Prize for the Humane Usage of Information Technology. For many years, Integrata Foundation distinguishes entrepreneurs, who make a contribution to a better work life and who enhance the quality of life for people in general.

Wolfram Reiners is an entrepreneur in information technology and he has interests in various companies. He specializes in innovations utilizing internet and mobile technologies. Wolfram Reiners is also concerned with sports and has an interest in kiteboarding.

